ly ornament was strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Miss Helen Downe of Magnolia and Miss Betty Martin. They wore aqua net over aqua taffeta identical in design to that of the matron of honor. They wore matching net mitts and gowns of aqua illusion and taffeta. Their bouquets were cascades of Tallman roses tied with aqua satin ribbon. Their only ornaments were strands of pearls, gift of the bride.

Roy Arnold of El Dorado, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Billy Ruggles of Marion, brother of the bride, David Street of Houston, Jerold Harrison of Dallas, and Hardy Johnson of Atlanta, Ga.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ruggles wore aqua blue crepe with black accessories. Her picture hat was of black taffeta and her corsage was pinocchio roses.

Mrs. Irvin, mother of the groom, chose a navy silk shantung dress with white accessories. A corsage of Briarcliff roses was pinned at her shoulder.

Mrs. Sidney Lee Churchwell, grandmother of the bride, was attired in a navy sheer dress with white accessories. Her corsage was white fringed carnations.

Preceding the entrance of the wedding party, Mr. Holloman accompanied Miss Carolyn Norwood of Nashville, Ark., cousin of the bridegroom, who sang, "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning. Miss Norwood wore pink organza and her corsage was of white tube roses.

"Clair de Lune" was played during the exchange of vows. During the ring ceremony Mr. Holloman played "With This Ring."

For the processional the wedding march was Wagner's Lohengrin was used and the recessional was Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream. Soft strains of Liebestraum were heard as Barbara and Dianne Humphries of Shreveport, nieces of the bride, lighted the tapers of yellow rustling moire taffeta fashioned with a round neckline which was outlined with a deep ruffle. The sleeves were short and puffed and a deep ruffle edged the bottom of the full gathered skirts. They wore matching taffeta mitts and halos of daisies.

Judy Nell Humphries, four year old niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length frock of pink net over taffeta, fashioned with a double ruffle around the neckline. The very full skirt was edged with a deep ruffle. She wore matching mitts and carried a white basket and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of chantilly lace over white satin designed with a sweetheart neckline, basque waist and long fitted sleeves fastened from her elbow to her wrists by self covered buttons and ending in lilly points over her hands. The full skirt featured a bustle effect and ended in a cathedral train.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a tiara of Swiss lace. She carried out the tradition of something old, some new, something borrowed and something blue, and wore a sixpence in her white slipper.

Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of tube roses centered with an orchid. She carried a silk handkerchief which belonged to her paternal grandmother, and wore a gold ring which belonged to her maternal grandmother.

Mrs. Truman C. Humphries, of Shreveport was her sister's matron of honor. Her dress was of petal pink net over taffeta fashioned with a fitted sheer waist and bouffant skirt. She wore a stole of net about her shoulders and matching mitts. Her headress was a calot of pink illusion and taffeta and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds tied with pink satin ribbon. ern locks up to Camden, additional flood control and power dams, channel alignments on the Ouachita and tributaries and comprehensive drainage programs for Southeast Arkansas and Northeast Louisiana. Under the terms of the amendment to Public Law 516 which is the flood control and Rivers & Harbors Bill by the present Congress, the Ouachita River Valley was exempt from delay in construction by virtue of any study to be made by the inter-agency committee. This safeguard was particularly insisted upon by Senator John L. McClellan, who had charge of the legislation as a flood control committee bill. Nevertheless the hearing in El Dorado has been scheduled and everyone who has any interest in the development of the Ouachita basin is invited to be present and present any testimony he wishes in connection with the subject matter at hand.

H. K. Thatcher, executive vice president of the Ouachita Valley association, has prepared an overall statement about the needs for development in the Valley and has especially invited each community to send representatives to discuss local matters. Several hundred witnesses are expected to attend the hearing and if need be the hearing will be extended into the following day.

Six Persons Meet Death by Violence

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents and drownings have taken the lives of at least six persons in Arkansas this week-end.

Grief-stricken W. H. Huddleston of Kenton, Ark., told officers how he backed his truck over his 18-month-old son, William Larry Huddleston. The youngster had strayed unnoticed from the house into the path of the vehicle Sunday.

North Little Rock police recovered the body of a man identified as Robert Raymond Smith, 34, from the Arkansas river near the downtown section there Sunday.

Dr. Gordon L. Holt, Pulaski county coroner, said Smith, a North Little Rock carpenter, apparently had been in the water for hours. Cause of death was not determined immediately.

Charles Otto Ludwig, 19-year-old Lawrence county youth, drowned in the Black river near Walnut Ridge Sunday.

A companion, John Earl McCord, told officers he tried to save Ludwig, but he said, the youth fought so hard he couldn't pull him to shore.

Howard Jones 20, Jonesboro, was killed instantly early when the car in which he was riding overturned near Jonesboro.

State Police Trooper Ad Schug said Jones apparently lost control of the vehicle as he attempted to turn around at an intersection.

A search party of six Union men dragging the Ouachita river recovered the body of George T. Gray, El Dorado, Sunday.

Union County Sheriff O. E. Bishop said Gray's body was found floating in shallow water about 18 miles east of El Dorado.

Gray had been missing since Friday when he left his home for a few hours fishing.

A corner's jury ruled death was by accidental drowning.

Joe Crews, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crews, Lake City, Ark., died in a Memphis hospital Saturday of injuries suffered when a tractor ran over him near his home.

Korea Used by Politicians Says Connally

Washington, Aug. 14 — (AP) —

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) accused Republican members of his senate foreign relations committee today of "political petting" in contending that administration policies invited the Communists' attack on South Korea.

"A palpably politically statement intended to influence the coming influence the coming elections," Connally said of a charge by four Republican members yesterday that the Truman administration virtually had invited Russia "to grab whatever it could in China, Korea and Formosa."

The statement was signed by Senators Wiley of Wisconsin, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Hickenlooper of Iowa and Lodge of Massachusetts. It had the endorsement in principle of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the other Republican member of the committee. Vandenberg, long th chief GOP advocate of bipartisan policy, is ill and did not sign the statement.

Its issuance split wide open the foreign relations committee, which frequently in recent years had agreed unanimously on major foreign policy issues.

The Republicans asserted that administration Far Eastern policy "consistently tempered with and capitulated to the ruthless demands of the Communists, dominated by Moscow." It added:

"Under the Kremlin was, in effect, given a green light to grab whatever it could in China, Korea and Formosa. This was never a bipartisan policy. It was solely an administration policy."

Connally retorted in a statement dictated to reporters that the Republican committee members had "issued a plain and palpable political statement on foreign policy — it is a document plainly intended to influence the coming elections."

"The best way to get international peace is to have unity at home instead of quarrelsome petting attacks on the administration by Republicans," he declared.

CARBON KILL

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc. by Julius Long

THIS STORY: Frank Phajol, commercial diamond dealer, has been murdered in Copper City, Arizona, and Ted Darmag, a private detective who was Phajol's bodyguard has just been questioned by police at the time was Ted Darmag, a competitor of Phajol's, who had threatened Phajol. Mike Dominico, a big drifter, who was Phajol's body guard, had been bragging about the "big deal" he was about to make, so it was no secret that Phajol and his daughter had brought a fortune in "stones" to Copper City.

VII
 I WAS Humbert's No. 1 suspect, and I probably rated the same way with Pat Phajol. It was the sort of miraculous that she didn't come up with a yelp that her father's diamonds had been stolen by the murderer.

She credited me with guessing
 the truth from the ransacked bag, and I credited the chief of police with the same good sense. He wasn't fooled a bit. He knew those stones weren't in the safe.

As we stepped out into the corridor, Dominico came up to Pat and said:

"I am very sorry. I had promised Teresa I was going to buy your father's diamonds. I keep my promises. I told Pete Grem-check to come down here, yes, but that was because I wanted your father to give me good prices."

I asked: "You told Gremcheck you were going to look at Phajol's diamonds and maybe buy 20,000 carats?"

"Yes. It was good business."
 "Did you tell him Phajol was going to bring his whole stock?"

"Yes. I couldn't buy on sample from Phajol." He had the decency to turn to Pat and say: "A man like Gremcheck represents an old-line house. From him I buy on lot because I know his firm sends me diamonds according to lot.
 When I buy 20,000 carats all at once from an independent, I want to see all the stones."

 "Why the unusually large order,
 Mr. Dominico?"

He turned to me as if it was none of my business, and said:
 "I put on six new crews for a California dam job. The new crews are green. They need lots of drills. I need 10 carats in each drill. Besides, I got lots of tired stones."

"That was a new one on me."
 "What do you mean, tired stones?"

He shrugged. "Stones still good but cut no footage. You take out stones, polish them with nitric acid and put them in vault in bank.
 After year, you have diamondsetter put them back in drill, and they cut fine because they no more tired. Don't ask me why—I been in business 40 years, and I know stones like that."

There wasn't anything the old boy didn't know about diamond drilling. Too bad he didn't know as much about matrimony. The idea of him marrying Teresa Jordan was strictly for the comic books.

THE couple left. Foster went back to his desk. The solitary bellhop sat half-asleep in a lobby chair. I knew Humbert had not overlooked him. The chief left me with a warning look and instruction not to try to leave town. I went upstairs with Pat Phajol, and we went into her room. The moment I closed the door she whirled on me.

"Why didn't you let me tell about the diamonds? A hundred thousand dollars' worth! How do you expect the police to solve my father's murder if they don't know the motive?"

"I don't expect the police to solve it. Humbert's a good man, but the lad who pulled this job is too good."

"Maybe you killed him!"

"I left your father alone under protest."

"But you stayed down in the lobby a long time. That clerk said so."

"I was only trying to pick up information that would help your father. I'm trying to help
